

A photograph of a modern house exterior. The main focus is a wooden door with a vertical grain, set in a white frame against a light-colored, vertically-slatted wall. To the left of the door is a mailbox and a door handle. In the foreground, a set of five wide, light-colored concrete steps leads up to the door. To the left of the steps, a young tree with bright green leaves is supported by wooden stakes. A metal handrail is visible next to the tree. The background shows a wooden fence and another building. The overall aesthetic is clean and minimalist.
